Following his arrest in Colorado Springs last July by Detectives Rowan and Logsdon, Edward R. Higgins, alias J. C. Holden, alias J. P. Lawton, has been arrested in Denver on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

While there was nothing in the way of damaging evidence found in the man's effects, the police have ascertained that several large letters were discovered, and similar missives have been found among his belongings in Denver, according to press dispatches yesterday. A 15-year-old boy, arrested with Higgins, told the police that the older man and induced him to steal a diamond ring and alleged that Higgins promised to give him $10 when it was sold. The boy was turned over to the juvenile court and Higgins has been bound over to the criminal court to await trial on a charge of receiving stolen property.

WHY DID JUNE RUN AWAY?

Today at the Empress the first episode of the new serial, from the pen of George Handolph Chester, author of the "Red-Hot Quick-Walking" series, will be the attraction. It promises to be one of the greatest picture stories ever filmed. The story of the first episode, as told in "Red Life," follows:

The difference, as June Warner on her honeymoon was in June 123. She lay with eyes closed, but mind keenly alert, in the quiet of the full-moon drawing room, while she thought of all that had happened. The drawing room was darkened and June had been made comfortable with pillows. Her almost unconscious lips had murmured her to rest after the fatigue of the wedding and the crowded reception.

Only a few minutes before he had come to the smoking compartment, after giving a dollar to the smiling porter for getting June some pillows. Not 30 seconds after she had closed her eyes, she was filled by her mother, had taken three new ten-dollar bills from his wallet and handed them to his bride. And the act had given her a painful shock, such as she could not have imagined.

It had been different taking money from her parents. That was natural. But somehow this seemed larger—a gratuity. Was this a part of marriage? Must she for the future be dependent upon the bounty of the man she had married? A sense of degradation caused her cheeks to flush and she twisted the bills convulsively in her pretty hands. Then worn out with all the excitement, June fell asleep. She dreamed that she saw two bronze figures which stood on the library table at home come to life. One of them was that of a young and beautiful woman, her hands held upward and five times the amount she had paid for it, and June, his eyes, he also informed her that, at any time she chose, she might redeem her treasure.

In the meantime, Ned was frantically searching for his lost bride. Twice he slipped past the door in the express, he glimpsed her with the man with the black vandyke. His train was delayed each time the door was closed. He rushed into the station, following himself into a taxi and followed close after her car. He was waiting a thrilling race up Fifth avenue, he lost her and the stranger in the maze of traffic.

Then it was that Ned Warner threw up his hands in despair. His mind ran over the events of the past few hours in rapid sequence. What had he done? He left undone that his lovely bride should flee from him in this fashion? The finding of the crumpled bills puzzled him sorely. But he was not his usual calmly determined to follow her to the end of the world, if only to learn the reason for her flight.

Surgeons Discover Remarkable Wounds

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The remarkable wounds that are caused by ricocheting bullets and secondary projectiles, and are being discovered by surgeons in ever-increasing variety are commented on by Henri de Varigny, in the Debate. Not only are deformed bullets frequently found in wounds, but with them such unusual substances as bits of bone from the bodies of other men, metal and medals and money, pieces of cloth and other articles.

The presence of these extraneous substances in wounds invariably means that they have been projected, by ricocheting bullets. An officer recently was found to have been injured by part of the forearm of one of his men; one man was struck by a stone that had been projected by a bullet.

In another case a part of one man's jaw bone was picked out of another man's body wound; still another soldier lost the sight of his eye by being struck with a fellow-soldier's tooth.

British Cruisers in From North Sea

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Most of the warships engaged in Sunday's naval battle in the North Sea returned home Monday and during Monday night it was announced here today. The Lion, the flagship of Sir David Beatty, was the last of the battle cruisers to arrive. She returned yesterday morning, when the Anson and the Laurel, among the light cruisers, some of the destroyers and the battle cruisers Tiger, Princess Royal, Indomitable and New Zealand were already at their moorings. The Lion arrived at 11 o'clock and was greeted with vigorous cheers by the crews of the anchored warships.

Captain Erdmann of the German armored cruiser Thetis, which was sunk in the recent battle in the North Sea, has been placed among the wounded, according to the Times. He is suffering from shock. The Lion and the Tiger were the only British battle cruisers that sustained material damage in the fight, the correspondent adds. The Lion had her speed reduced but that soon can be remedied. The Princess Royal, another of the British battle cruisers which had almost as big a part in the action, the correspondent states, is practically unscathed.

London, Jan. 27.—A strange discovery was made a few days ago at the home of Miss L. Ridge, 107, Lower street, London. It was a stamped "covered by divers" from the wreck of the steamship Empress of Ireland, and had come from the dead letter office at Ottawa.

Posted at New Glasgow, N. S., on May 25 of last year, the letter had gone down with the big vessel, the wreck of which in the St. Lawrence cost more than a thousand lives, and though under water for months, it reached London in surprisingly good condition. The message which had held down the flap of the envelope was gone; the stamp was missing, and in places the ink of the address had run. The letter itself, however, was perfectly legible.

Belgian Documents Purely Informal

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The official information bureau this evening issued a statement as follows:

The foreign office, replying officially to the interviews with Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German imperial chancellor (published in the Times), January 24 and January 25) admits the existence of the documents in Brussels but insists they were purely informal in case the British needed to defend Belgian neutrality. The Belgian marginal note upon the record explains that the entry of the English into Belgium would only take place after the violation of our neutrality by Germany.

EL PASO NOT TO SPEND MONEY SEEKING MERGER

California Issue Later, Pointing Out Policy to Be Pursued Following Resignation of A. L. Burris

No additional company money is to be expended on the proposed merger of Cripple Creek mining companies, according to a statement issued by the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining Company, the El Paso company, the director of the El Paso company, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Allen L. Burris. The full report follows:

You have been advised under date of January 4, by the former president of this corporation, that certain divergences relative to the past as well as the future policy of your company have arisen. In the interest of harmony and the conservation of the company, Mr. Burris has formally severed his connection with the El Paso.

Your directors have had a number of meetings, at which every phase of the situation has been thoroughly and very harmoniously discussed, and for the remainder of the fiscal year at least certain definite policies have been adopted.

1. That it will be our endeavor to manage the affairs of this company in a careful and conservative manner, and with the utmost economy, so as to meet more the interests of the individual stockholders.

2. That certain merger plans, which have taken much time and expenditure by the former management, and which, if carried out, might have been greatly beneficial to your property, are under existing circumstances, impracticable and therefore no additional company money will be expended for such purpose.

3. That a conservative board of directors, representing the most successful mining, milling and banking interests in Colorado, can best subserve the interests of the stockholders at large, in the husbanding of the resources of this valuable property and the distribution of dividends among the stockholders as equitably as is consistent with careful business judgment.

McGarry Elected.

There have thus far been created two vacancies upon the board, and in accordance with the above mentioned policy, Mr. H. McGarry has been elected to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Burris' resignation. Mr. McGarry is vice president and general manager of the Golden Cycle Mining Company, the Cripple Creek district, as well as one of the best producing mines in the United States. To the second vacancy there has been elected Mr. Fred W. Bailey of Denver, a successful business man and banker, being one of the directors of the United States National bank, whose counsel will be very valuable to your present management.

Owing to the shortness of the time before the annual meeting, we have not elected a new president, but Mr. Charles M. Robertson, our vice president and chairman of the board, will exercise the powers and duties of the president. Directors A. C. Gardner and Fred W. Bailey have volunteered their services to act with the presiding officer upon an executive committee, which will pass upon all expenditures and in general upon the details of the company's business. The various officers and employees whose services in the past have been most satisfactory have been retained, and are now working at the end of greatest efficiency at the Cripple Creek mine.

The construction work at the No. 1 shaft is progressing rapidly, and we trust by approximately the middle of February to be again hoisting. The new shaft is a nearly 1,000 feet deep, and can be constructed and we expect to make considerable saving in life insurance premiums in the future.

As you are probably aware, the extension of the Cripple Creek drainage tunnel has been delayed because the fire, which has been burning since the No. 1 shaft of the El Paso mine. The average receding of the water in the district has been almost doubled by the new work done by the drainage tunnel, and we feel that the early completion of this project will be greatly beneficial to the entire Cripple Creek community.

The conditions in Cripple Creek are very much improved, and a number of very valuable strikes in the large mine tend also to help the camp. We have many years of great prosperity ahead. While the management trust to see the present price of the stock advance, it is, however, by no means interested in any stock market deals, and it trusts through the careful and conservative operation of this property to have such advances based upon the production of the El Paso mine.

We are also much gratified to report that the mine showing is more than satisfactory. While no work has been possible in opening up the No. 2 shaft, in progress through the Nichols shaft. The Ajax vein has been intersected by a crosscut from the 300-foot level of the Nichols shaft, and the ore found to be of approximately the same grade and size. Regular shipments are being made from this ore shoot and we expect to make a very pleasing showing from the same.

THE PREVALENCE OF VENEREAL DISEASES

From the United States Public Health Service.

In attacking a problem it is always advantageous and strategically necessary to know the factors in the case, both as to quantity and quality. The warfare against disease is like any campaign in military operations—we must learn the number and disposition of the enemy. Statistics are our scouts in any movement to overcome a given disease locally or generally. Heretofore the prevalence of the venereal diseases has been a matter of obscure character, but there has been a general observation, as there has been no compulsory record of them as in the case of contagious diseases like measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria and the like. Both the victim and those treating them have kept such information to themselves, because of the peculiar conditions surrounding it. It has been a conspiracy of silence even.

Hence the attempt is made to determine the prevalence of venereal diseases in this country have been limited to sporadic and estimates of those medical men who have had large local experience in the great centers of population and the diseases have been as varied as the type of mind of the guesser, radical or conservative. Some have guessed that 20 per cent of the population is or has been affected, others as high as 80 per cent, based on their personal judgment of certain localities. No reliable basis of computation has ever been offered to make these estimates applicable to the general population of the United States.

At best it is a complex problem which cannot be reduced to decimals, but the statistics of the United States public health service have been found to afford the nearest practicable answer to this important social question. It is, in short, a proposition in proportion stated thus: Given a certain well-defined group of persons of whom a record of ailments has been kept under official supervision and reduced to an equation, using the whole population as the other factor.

For over a century the merchant seamen of this country have been treated as a class in the marine hospitals, which are under the jurisdiction of the public health service, and accurate records have been kept of their injuries and diseases. The whole number of merchant sailors in the country being known through the census returns, numbering now about 40,000 males of 15 years and over, the records of the records show how many of them were afflicted by what they were treated. Among the diseases it has been found that 10 per cent of the seamen are afflicted annually with venereal diseases of various kinds. This covers a record of 4,000 cases of sick and disabled seamen, created in the last 30 years, a number sufficiently large to eliminate all semblance of accidental conditions.

There are about 85,000 males in the United States of the age of 15 and over, and by the rule of proportion the same per cent should show infection. Therefore, the proposition in ratios gives the following result—making the guesser, radical or conservative.

MISS EVA LANG CHARLES MILLER Lang-Miller Company, Burns Theater

in an effort to grasp a cluster of amber grapes held tantalizingly near and yet beyond her reach by a strong, sturdy man. In vain she stretched out her arms. They, alas! she added, were her complete failure.

Must I then be satisfied for seeing you after me? she asked. And clearly June heard him answer.

What is the way, the only way. You are woman and must ask. I am man, who gives, but gives only when he is asked.

Then came confused memories of the fore part of the day, the wonderful, palpitating morning that saw June Moore become June Warner. She was in her wedding gown and veil and gloves, descending the staircase on her father's arm, followed by her six bridesmaids. She had a vague recollection of the half-spoken words at the altar.

"Crash! Her cry! The heavy train came to a jerky pause, and while at most instantly it resumed its forward rush, the jangling of the brides aroused June. She was still holding the crumpled bills in her nervously clenched hand. The sight of them and vanished her into action. Throwing the money on the floor, she hurried into her coat and hat and seized her bag. Presently the train came to a standstill at a scheduled stop. Unmoved by anybody she made her way to the rear platform of the last Pullman and alighted.

As she walked toward the station, a tall, well-built man with a black and white beard, waiting near the depot, watched her every move. When a local bound for New York drew in, a few admiring glances, he deferentially bowed her on board. And later, coming the fact that she had no clear idea where she was going, he offered her services. June declined, however, and by disposing of her watch for the day to a woman who offered her the money for the ticket, she was able to get to the depot. There, over, bought the way to the thing to do with him, and in the scene follows Stafford tells her that he has bought and paid for her. Virginia tells him he must promise to stop drinking altogether, or she will leave him forever. He refuses to give this promise, she leaves him, returns to her old position, and takes up her residence with her brother and sister. When the brother loses his position he, unknown to Virginia, telephones Stafford, thinking Virginia has sent for him, comes after her and she thinks he has come of his own volition. A reconciliation follows and they rush to each other's arms, both confessing how much they love each other. This is the kind of a play that Eva Lang shines in, for it gives her an opportunity for serious intense acting of an emotional nature. Mr. Charles Miller as the husband gives a most finished portrayal. Mr. John McCabe as Jimmy Miller, has a role that fits him like the proverbial glove. He virtually creates this part, for he makes it stand out more than any actor who has ever played it in the west.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

Distinctly human, ceaselessly interesting and intensely absorbing is how George M. Cohan's mystery farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," is described, and which will be seen at the Opera House, February 1. It was one of the district hits of last season in New York. The naturalness of the characters introduced and the whimsical humor of the plot, to say nothing of the superbly designed love story it presents, makes this latest urban play production one of the most novel plays presented in years.

Annual Vaudeville at Printers Home

The annual vaudeville entertainment at the Union Printers home last night attracted a crowd of more than 600 people and proved a great success. The program was carefully selected with a view to interesting the audience and the musical numbers by Fred H. Pink's orchestra were well received.

Beginning with a beautiful musical number, entitled "A Hunting We Go," the program rambled through a score of features, which included fancy dancing, readings, songs and dialect, musical selections, monologues and musical specialties. The numbers were all good, the impersonation of Harry Lauder by Robert Larrick, being one of the features of the evening.

The musical specialties were unusually good and "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary" nearly created a disturbance among the spectators. Among those taking part in the program were: Miss Margaret Couture, Robert Larrick, Miss Beattie Osborne, Miss Zola Johnson, Vernon G. Clark, W. J. Hodges, E. T. Hartwell, Jack Pink, Randall, Blumauer, J. F. Robinson, Walter C. Bybee, A. D. Aiken and A. B. Ballard.

Prices of Potatoes Are So Low They Won't Drop

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—In announcing today that unusually large stocks of potatoes were held on January 1 in the large potato producing states, the department of agriculture warned southern growers who usually sell their spring crops in competition with the stocks carried over in the northern states, to take notice of the situation.

"Prices are unusually low, and therefore, may not decline further," the department's statement said, "but material advances in the next few months cannot be forecast from present supplies. The United States, as a potato exporter or importer relatively a large quantity of potatoes. Therefore, the European war has no material direct bearing upon the potato market of the United States."

Government Wins Suit Against S. P.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—The United States government won today its first case against the Southern Pacific railroad to oust that company from mineral land. Nine sections of mineral land near Needles, containing gold, silver and copper, were given back to the government by the local United States land office, which canceled the Southern Pacific's selection.

Arguments are being heard now in the United States district court here in the government's suit to oust the railroad company from all land valued at $10,000,000 in the 224 hills district of Kern county. Patents were issued on this land in 1904, however, while the 1,840 acres near Needles merely had been selected by the corporation as agricultural.

The evidence included doors for trucks, bags of three-ply oak and steel, heavy iron gratings and other barricades, which internal revenue officers broke down in raiding the place.

The city council yesterday adopted the report of the joint commission recommending the annexation of Colorado City to Colorado Springs. The ordinance approving and adopting the report was passed as an emergency ordinance, at the request of the commission, and will become effective today, after its publication. The commission asked that the ordinance approving its report be passed as an emergency ordinance in order that there might be sufficient time to publish the ordinance providing for annexation, so that voters of both cities at the regular election in April could vote on the question.

Dependency Due to Indigestion.
It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and dependent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa. "For years my digestion was so poor that I could not eat the lightest foods. I tried everything that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them, my digestion is fine." For sale by all dealers.
